ANNUAL HIGH SCHOOL RE-UNION

The ex-students of the Red Deer High School, and those at present attending the school in Grades XII and XIII, held their annual get-together in the school assembly hall on Friday night last. It was a rather disagreeable night and only residents of the city attended. There was a good turnout of the High School Graduates, but a very disappointing attendance of graduates, so disappointing that the old students present were in favor of disbarring the organization, altogether. After some discussion it was decided to try another year at least, and to add to the executive of the present High School pupils.

Among the former students present were Mrs. E. G. Johns, Mrs. C. F. Carwell and Mr. P. Ellis; Misses Gertrude Smith, Urs Dale, Doris Pyke, Helen Usherwood, Florence and Bessie, and Messrs. Darwin Houston, Lester Gaster, H. P. Ellis, J. Jonsson, C. F. Brooks, Alvin (Gavril) and C. F. Carwell. Inspector J. F. Boyce, of Calgary, was present, as was Inspector W. J. McLean, formerly principal of the High School here. Chairman R. L. Gaster represented the School Board and gave a very cordial address of welcome to the gathering.

A programme was put on consisting of short addresses by Gaster and Inspector Boyce and Inspector McLean, a violin solo by Andrew Lund, vocal solo by Miss Gertrude Smith, a play by Miss Eleanor Leary, Alvin DeLong also obliged with a piano selection.

After the programme and the reading of what retiring Secretary and Treasurer said as the "second" of last year's meeting, the election of officers for next year took place. Dick Gaster was elected President, Miss Marjorie Greig Vice-President, and Miss Gertrude Smith, Secretary, all by acclamation.

After a hearty lunch, during which the Theatre Orchestra gave a fine performance, a dance was started in the assembly hall and carried on most enjoyably for some time.

Next year a special effort will be made to get a large and representative gathering of ex-students at the annual reunion. The business part of the programme will be cut down or if possible done away with altogether, and more time spent in an effort to look up old acquaintances and to make new friendships with the younger classes.

COURT OF REVISION

The City Council sat at a Court of Revision on Friday evening. Present were Messrs. Mayor Collison, Aldermen Galbraith, Johns, McClure, Gibson and Hill, and Solicitor W. E. Payne and Engineer Donnell.

The following were the successful appeals against the 1924 assessment: Part of W. 17-42-27 W. 40. Miss Cronquist.

Miss Cronquist produced agreement for purchase from Toronto General Trusts Corporation that she had purchased this land for $40 per acre last March, and that part of the land had been taken for a road. Assessment reduced to $50 per acre for 49 1/2 acres.

Block 7 Red Deer West. H. Kingzett. Mr. Kingzett informed the Court of Revision that this block had been cancelled and returned to acreage. Reduced to $450.

Block 14 Red Deer West. Mr. Redmond claimed this should be assessed as acreage as the purchase agreement cancelled. Assessment reduced to $215, being at $100 per acre.

Block 1 and 2, Block 11, Society of Alberta. Appellant showed that Lot 1 was irregular in shape and was narrow at rear of lot. Assessment reduced by $500 on the ground.

Right-of-way south of Ross Street, Canadian National Railway. Appellant claimed that $700 per acre was excessive as land was of little value for other than railway purposes. Reduced to $400 per acre.

Lot 29 and 30, Block 25. Mrs. Wells. Appellant claimed that barn assessed on the property was not on it. Appeal allowed and assessment on improvements reduced by $200.

Lot 1 to 14, Block A, Plan 5190V. North Red Deer. Wm. Snell. Appellant claimed no improvements on this property. Appeal allowed and assessment on improvements struck out.

Lot 10 and 11, Block J, Parkville. Mrs. Baghurst. Appellant claimed barn sold. Improvements reduced by $15.

Village of North Red Deer; various lots taken over by the Village under tax enforcement proceedings. Assessment changed on lots not in Village, and lots used as a street exempted. On advice of the City Solicitor the other assessments were confirmed.

There were fewer appeals than usual this year, and no appeals against the business assessments.

MARY TOWERS WINS PIANO

The big Piano contest, run under the supervision of the McLarty Hardware Company, and in which The New Publishing Company had the privilege of giving prizes for subscriptions, came to a hectic conclusion on Christmas Eve. As we prophesied last week, a great number of the contestants were relying on a terrific last day drive to get them up on top. Every one of the first ten in the contest were credited during the last two or three days with thousands and hundreds of thousands of votes. But Mary Towers was at the head and she meant to stay there. Buying with her last and fatted vote eleven o'clock when the vote box was removed, and in a few minutes Mr. McLarty announced the result of the contest. Mary Towers was the winner. There was, of course, instant jubilation on the part of the winner and her friends, but there was also a little feeling of regret and regret for other contestants who had worked so hard to get to the reward for their labors. The losers were all good sports, though, and Mary was showered with congratulations from all sides. As she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Locke, she was most grateful to all those who had helped her, and full of praise for the contest and the prize. The only thing she was sorry for was that she could not get the piano taken out to Willowdale before Christmas.

The final standing of the first ten in the contest was as follows: Mary Towers, Willowdale. 901635; Kate Brown, city. 808950; Myrtle Jacobson, Brookley. 615440; Mrs. J. E. C. Only two minutes of two minutes later Smith and scored. Six minutes later Cox made another solo rush from end to end, and scored for the second count for Red Deer.

The last period was a hard fought session there being no score, and Red Deer winning by 2-0.

For many years the Canadian Pacific Railway has consisted of a single-track main line. It was the first railway to build and use a double-track main line. It was the first to build and use a steam plow, and the service given by this type has been mainly responsible for the all-year communication between eastern and western Canada. Heavy snow falls experienced at times, particularly in Ontario, through the Rockies, being removed by the steam plow.

New Cars de Luxe Made in Canada

Of the best of modern improvements to railway service in Canada are the Canadian Pacific combination dining and parlor cars. The new all-steel cars, six in number, will operate on the more important short runs, affording every convenience and luxury, where full size dining and parlor cars are not required. They are the only Cafe Parlor Cars existing which are fitted with a smoking room, and the revolving slumber-back chairs are another distinctive feature.

Interior decoration has been given special consideration by the Company, and the new cars are an extremely well finished product. Inlaid mahogany has been used with good effect, the ceilings have a light brown finish, and the lighting has been arranged to permit reading in any part of the car without strain or glare. Lamps are arranged along the centre of the ceiling, and bracket lamps over each table and chair, all with truscon shades, diffuse a warm glow.

The new cars are different from any others doing service in Canada in that they are practically divided into four separate compartments. The kitchen, fully equipped, takes up nearly 16 feet of one end, and in this are found a huge range with ovens and steam tables attached. A charcoal burning grill is placed next the range, and on the other side are the separate refrigerators for meats, fish, fruits, milk, cream and ice cream. Every available inch of flooring seems to be utilized, but there is room enough for three men to work and for the carving table, sink, dish washer and innumerable lockers, grocers, tinware, glass, silver, etc. A tank overhead supplies fresh and filtered water for use in the dining room and kitchen.

Leaving the cars come upon a small vestibule which opens into the dining room. Band some china and silver cabinets can be seen here, and stowed snugly into the corner is a "bar" which will hold a surprisingly large number of bottles, and keep them cool too, because ice may be let into a chamber at the rear, through the roof.

The dining room is 19 feet long and seats 18 people. Three tables each accommodate four diners, and three tables, two. Particularly when lighted, the dining room is most beautiful. The general effect is very rich and soft.

The parlor, over 21 feet long, contains twelve chairs with swivel base and reclining back. There is a good distribution of light for reading, and the compartment is absolutely the last word in comfort. The smoking room is reached through a short corridor, off which are the wash rooms. This is somewhat smaller, but decidedly more comfortable than the smoking rooms of the standard sleeper or first class coaches. It is over 7 feet long and the two leather sofas accommodate six people with ease.

The new Canadian Pacific cafe parlor cars have their own heating units which is another advantage. They are fitted with cooling fans and the ventilating system has been so arranged as to ensure a complete change of air every few minutes without causing draughts.

These cars are a credit to the Canadian workmanship that has gone into their makeup, and will do much to encourage travel in this part of the continent.

The New Ford Coupe

An entirely new body design of remarkable beauty as well as practical utility, is the distinguishing feature of the new Ford Coupe. The body lines follow in one graceful sweep from the new high radiator to the "Turtle-back" curve of the rear deck, which has been enlarged to conveniently accommodate bulky grips and packages.

Upholstering is luxuriously deep both in the seat and back, the covering being of rich brown broadcloth with mahogany stripe. A recess shelf is provided behind the seat, for parcels.

Interior fittings include revolving window regulators, and door locks and handles finished in nickel. The large rear window is fitted with silk poplin shade in dull silvered mountings.

The windshield is surmounted by a broad sun-visor, which protects the eyes from glare.

As a handsome and practical all-weather car for town or country, the new Ford Coupe cannot be surpassed.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY OF CANADA, LIMITED, FORD, ONTARIO

Helping to Sell Canadian Scenery

ABOVE is a reproduction from an old print depicting an "Excursion Train of Speed between Montreal and Quebec." In August 1910, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, in order to attract tourists, introduced the "Excursion Train of Speed between Montreal and Quebec." The train was composed of a Pullman observation car, a Pullman dining car, and a Pullman sleeping car. The train was operated by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. The train was operated by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company.

NO railroad on the Continent of America is much more than a century old, yet it seems, and is indeed, a far cry to the days of the old horse-drawn railway vehicles and the open cars drawn by the first locomotives which superseded them. Perhaps in no country in the world has railroad engineering made such progressive strides as in Canada during the last half century. As late as 1870-75 the Quebec Government encouraged development by building railways entirely of wood. The rails were of straight grained hard maple, 12 feet in length, but the knots were weak spots which often caused the rail to break and occasion a delay of, perhaps, hours. In wet weather no progress could be made at all and there were not a few living today who remember having to help the fireman and engineer load up with wood in order to speed their travel.

What a far cry it is, from the old cars, exposed to the elements at all times, or hosed in so that fresh air was at a premium, to the luxurious parlor, sleeping, observation and observation cars of today. Canada had just as much scenery in the old days as it has now. The same glorious expanses and wooded hillsides, the same lakes and rivers, the same mountains, yet Canadian scenery could not be "sold" then.

IDLE THOUGHTS OF A BUSY FARMER

The lack of judgment of our present day Seed Government seems always to the fore. This summer they refused to issue two elevator licenses to do business at Aspen Beach, because in their judgment there was only business enough for one elevator at that station. The grain firm who was refused an elevator license has operated two loading elevators to full capacity at Aspen Beach ever since threshing was under way, and more grain has been shipped from this station, this season than from Bentley or Rimbey, where two elevators have operated at each point for the last four or five years. At Porchee, where there is only one elevator, the grain seems of poor quality, as it has run a grade lower than at Bentley or Rimbey. Some of the farmers in that neighborhood respected the rival grain firm from Aspen Beach to put in a grain loading elevator at Porchee. This, we are told, was agreed to. Since then the quality of the grain around Porchee has greatly improved and now grades equally well with Bentley and Rimbey.

I believe it is the belief of the proletariat that the common or garden earth worm or angle worm lacks brains as well as backbone. The other day I read an article by a scientific Johnnie in which he proved from a series of experiments that the lowly worm has brains, but they are situated in its stomach. After reading this article I was treated with the thought that even if they are situated in his stomach, the worm is ahead of our so-called farmer legislators, for anyway he has brains.

At the time of the last election the U.P.A. stalwarts told us how splendidly everything would work. Each member elect had to give a signed resignation to his constituents so that at any time the member could be compelled to quit did he not like the U.P.A. mark. What has happened? Why are the U.P.A. legislators allowed to run wild at Edmonton and make the farmer the goat for everything? Does the recall business not work, or do the stalwarts approve of the horrible mess being made of the farmer and his business by their representatives?

Just to give one illustration of how our legislators are out to get the farmer and make him the one and only goat to show how the farmers are doing, and saviours are legislating to put him out of business, we will instance two residents of Alberta, Messrs. A. and B. A. came to this province some twelve or thirteen years ago and took up a homestead. He had a wife and a young family, but no money. After four strenuous years, working out and hitting his improvements down, he is unable to prove up and gets his patent. The next step is to raise a big mortgage as possible by buying land and equipment to work the farm. By hard work and frugality he is able to keep his family decently and pay the interest on his mortgage. At the end of five years he has his mortgage renewed to enable him to put more stock on his farm. His mortgage now is some two years from falling due, the stock that cost him an average of $50 a head are now worth about $15 to add to this he has been feeling poor for some time, and the doctor orders him to the hospital, where he can get proper attention, etc. After getting the necessary papers signed by the Municipal Council, A. is admitted to the hospital and detained there for six months, running up a bill at $400 a day. He is discharged eventually owing a hospital and medical bill of round $2,000.

"Well," says A., "I have a mortgage on my farm, the value of my stock has depreciated 75 percent, and the dollar a bushel wheat I sowed last spring is now selling for 60 cents. However, I will tackle the job, and in the course of the next two years I hope with God's help to clear up this mess. He is shortly brought up on standing when he finds he has fallen, not into the hands of the Almighty, but into the hands of the farmer's friend and saviour, the farm legislator at Edmonton. Through the agency of laws passed by the legislature he is presented with his hospital and medical bill. When he intimates that at present he cannot pay his bill, he is served with a caveat against his land, and at the end of a year, the bill still being unpaid, the government issues a new title for the land vested in the municipality, and A. is turned adrift. How do the people fare who financed his mortgage? They are like the bull's tail—away at the hind end—and when the door shuts they are left outside in the cold.

Now brother B. is a happy-go-lucky day labourer. He works here, there and everywhere as the necessity or the notion takes him. He isn't particular as long as he has a grub stake and a few dollars to spend. He also falls ill, and the doctor sends him to the hospital. When he comes out, there is a caveat against his land, and he is turned adrift. How do the people fare who financed his mortgage? They are like the bull's tail—away at the hind end—and when the door shuts they are left outside in the cold.

Yes, I am sure our farmer legislators are not as well equipped as the lowly earth worm; he has brains and they are situated in his stomach.

The farmer may have to endure great physical labour at his calling, but he is saved a great deal of brain strain. Think of the worry that will soon assail the wealthy city man as he tackles the job of legislating. He will become nervous and hasty on exemptions, etc., to lessen the total on which he will be mulcted. That cost him $1.00 to $1.25 a bushel to grow selling for round 50¢ a bushel, now such trouble is in store for

GILLETT'S 100% PURE FLAKE EYE

TEN MINUTES SLOW

By Hugh F. Grinstead

When Bert Kelley started himself at breakfast he looked at his watch. It had run down. He wound it and set it to a quarter past six. Half an hour later while hurrying past the courthouse on his way to work he glanced at his watch and found that he had set his watch ten minutes slow.

"Oh, I'll just allow ten minutes when I look at it and set it right when I have more time," he said to himself and slipped the watch back into his pocket.

Young Kelley was employed as extra fireman and general helper in the engine room of the big smelter where copper ore was crushed and the metal extracted and cast into bars. He arrived just as the whistle blew and was busy until the noon hour. He had not noticed his watch at all during the morning, and when he went out to lunch at a neighboring restaurant the fact that it was slow had passed completely from his mind.

On the way back to the mill after dinner Kelley looked at his watch and found that he had almost twenty minutes to spare before the work whistle would blow. It was his every day while the machinery was at rest to the crew by the side of the massive building and not to the set of five flywheel. He determined to set about it at once.

The engine that furnished power for the stamping machines was of an old type with a flywheel sixteen feet in diameter and a crank of four feet bolted to the big wheel carried the driving belt. A cement-lined pit accommodated the lower part of the flywheel; the upper part went through an opening cut in the floor over the engine room and rose two feet above it. The opening was three feet wide and approximately seventeen feet long. The driving belt ran up through it to the pulley on the shafting that ran along the

The plant, which was built on a steep hillside, had not been built for its present use, because of the change of its position against the hillside, many of the arrangements were not what they should have been. The engine base, for example, was set higher than the boiler room, because there was no other way to set it. Since the crank to be oiled had to be reached from the wheel pit, Kelley, getting an oil can and a hand of waste, went upstairs to the floor above. Grasping the rim of the big wheel, he swung down to the wheel and then stepped upon the crank bearing. The narrow space in which he was compelled to work was virtually a covered pit. On one side the rim was the boiler; on the other, the central wall of the mill foundation. One end of the pit was boarded up, the connecting rod from the engine came through a small passage at the other end. When standing up Kelley could touch the floor above. Before he uncrossed the cap from the oil cup he looked at his watch and found it was a quarter to one. In a few minutes he would have his task done. He busied himself polishing the brass cup up like a handful of cotton waste and wiping off surplus oil from the bearings. As he worked he heard the whistling rod. The lever arm, which he was employed to enter that part of the building so long before the machinery started.

He filled the oil cup from the can and picked up the brass cap to screw it back into place. As the throb of the engine was started by the shriek of the whistling rod, he could not believe that it was already one o'clock. He gave a final turn to the cap and stood up with his feet on the square surface of the connecting rod just behind the crank bearing.

But even as he raised himself from a sitting posture he caught a sound more sinister than the whistle; it was the hiss of steam entering the idle cylinder! He felt the machinery tremble for an instant with the force of the pressure; then the crank jerked forward slowly and imparted a barely perceptible motion to the big flywheel.

Kelley suddenly realized that the engine had started in the same instant he remembered that his watch was ten minutes slow. It was one o'clock.

Since the belt wheel was already in motion, he could not stop up if and of the building and he had come up could be crawled back over the engine. He gave a frightened shout, but the hiss of steam smothered his voice. In the narrow space there was no place to stand except on the moving connecting rod.

The maximum speed at which the wheel ran never exceeded four feet per second, but that was a great deal to shake a man off the polished surface of the connecting rod. After four revolutions the shaft would be under full speed and Kelley saw himself thrown off and crashed against the wall or caught in the flying spokes of the big wheel. He looked up despairingly. He could not climb back past the flying spokes. When the crank passed center and swung downward Kelley felt as if the earth were dropping from beneath his feet. He gasped and threw out his hand to steady himself. The next instant he felt himself being lifted as the crank came upward to complete its first revolution. Fearful that he might be thrown off when it again descended, he quickly shifted his position along the connecting rod and away from the crank. He moved three or four feet, keeping his balance by leaning backward and pressing his hands against the wall. In his new position the vertical motion was not so great.

If he could hold on for only a few seconds, the engine might bear his calls and shut off the steam before the engine reached full speed. Again and again he shouted, but the noise of escaping steam, augmented now by the rumble of the slowly moving machinery, completely drowned his voice. The wheels kept going as if he were not there.

A second seems long to a man face to face with what appears to be certain destruction. Kelley tried to devise some way out of his perilous predicament, but all that he could think of was the big spokes of the flywheel as they raced upward scarcely a foot in front of his face. At first he counted them, but soon they came too fast for that. He felt the current of air that the wide rim set in motion. Everything round him seemed to be dropping. Indeed he was the only thing that moved upward, the way he wanted to go. Why should he not go up with it?

The crank was again on the up-thrust; the wheel had almost completed its second revolution. Kelley was chasing one another upward faster and faster; in another second they would be only a blur.

Kelley did not lose time in thinking over the plan that had popped into his head. It would be certain destruction to remain where he was; at worst he could only hasten the end by trying to get out now before it was too late. He swung his arms round in front of him and leaned forward. He caught the moving rim of the big wheel and was pulled off his feet. He felt as if the arms were being torn from their sockets, but he managed to keep his hold on the big rim.

A wheel sixteen feet in diameter moves rapidly at the rim even when rotating at a slow speed. Kelley was hurled upward at unbelievable speed.

Almost instantly he was at the top of the big wheel; he had just a fleeting glimpse of the floor as he rose above it.

He had not planned how he should get off the wheel when he rose above it, but he must get off somehow; if he held on, he would either strike the edge of the floor or be crushed at the bottom of the pit.

Lying with his chest across the wide rim, Kelley let go and fell. Thrown off at a tangent, he sailed through the air and landed on the floor ten feet away.

Blinded and dazed, he sat up and got slowly to his feet. He could hear someone running toward him from the far end of the building. He threw himself against a post and stood for a moment until his brain cleared. They drew his watch from his pocket and found it was exactly one minute past one!

It was exactly one minute past one!
